Top acts ensure that less is more

A lark in the park: An estimated 100,000 attended The Wireless festival in Finsbury Park at the weekend

MORE than 100,000 revellers flocked to Finsbury Park at the weekend for The Wireless urban music festival.

Top home-grown and international grime, hip hop and R&B artists, including headliners Chance the Rapper, Skepta and

The Weekend, were among the 45 acts performing over three nights as fans partied in the sweltering sunshine.

The annual event remains a bone of contention, however, with residents and park users once again complaining in posts on Twitter and Facebook over the weekend about noise and disruption as well as large sections of the park being off limits to the public for several weeks in the run-up to the festival.

A legal challenge for a judicial review, which the Friends of Finsbury Park mounted before last year's festival, was rejected by the High Court, but the park users' group has since been granted leave to appeal and the hearing is scheduled for November 2.

Businesses sign up for Tottenham Charter in advance of regeneration

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A PLEDGE that residents and schoolchildren will reap the benefits from the massive regeneration of Tottenham has been enshrined in a charter drawn up by Haringey Council.

The document, called the Tottenham Charter, was launched last week.

It gives undertakings from companies, developers and charities partnering the council to deliver on-the-job construction skills training, apprenticeships, employment and business opportunities as well as measures to tackle social issues including health.

"The Tottenham Charter underlines our commitment to ensuring that the regeneration of Tottenham is about so much more than bricks and mortar," said council leader Claire Kober.

"It is a real opportunity to improve quality of life for thousands of residents."

Among the commitments is a schools engagement programme, along with measures to help NEETS (young people not in employment, education or training) in Tottenham Hale Village delivered by the regeneration company which built and own it, Lea Valley Estates.

Architects and project specialists Arup will build links with Northumberland Park Community School while developers Grainger are delivering a programme of activities with Gladesmore Community School.

Engineering and construction company Volker Fitzpatrick is delivering a science, technology, engineering and maths STEM engagement programme with schools and providing work placements.

The Redemption Brewery Company is offering work experience and the Tottenham Hotspur Foundation will work with the community to tackle key social issues including health and well-being, education and training.

Festival offers something to suit everyone

A STEEL band and samba dancers will bring a taste of carnival to a Tottenham park on Saturday.

StART to Dream: Chestnuts Community Celebration at Chestnuts Park will feature a host of fun-filled activities and attractions for all the family.

The event, from 11am to 4pm, is being jointly organised by St Ann's Redevelopment Trust (StART), a community-led initiative which has drawn up its own blueprint to build 800 affordable homes on the redundant St Ann's Hospital site opposite the park in St Ann's Road.

Two thirds of the site is being sold off by Barnet, Enfield and Haringey NHS Mental Health Trust.

StART fears that if a private developer wins the bid, the homes will be beyond the pockets of most residents.

Its masterplan will be on view in a marquee at the festival and visitors can have their say on it.

The Friends of Chestnuts Park will unveil a new willow garden and orchard.

There will also be willow crafts, arts activities and free taster sessions at Chestnuts Community Centre, in St Ann's Road, as well as a guided tree walk, drumming workshops, live music and refreshments.

Paul fears he's had his chips due to cycle lane disruption

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AN Enfield chippy's takings have been slashed because of ongoing roadworks nearby, it was claimed this week.

John Phantis, owner of fish&chips@...London Road, says the business is struggling to survive because of the Cycle Enfield work being carried out nearby.

Business was tough before the installation of cycle lanes through the borough started, but now – with no foreseeable end date – he fears it could be the “nail in the coffin” for his business.

He does not oppose cycle lanes per se, but says that digging one down either side of the A105 will, even after the inevitable disruption caused by building them, increase road congestion and could put local shopkeepers – like him – out of business.

Mr Phantis said: “We’ve really suffered since the work started about four weeks ago.

“They’ve blocked the road, so people can’t stop outside. I’d say takings are down up to 50 per cent some days and about 35 per cent on others. We just can’t keep going like this and they haven’t told us how long it’s going on for.

“They are working at a snail’s pace, they lay about six slabs a day. I don’t blame the workmen, but if this was a private company they’d be somebody kicking them to go faster. But there’s no boss out there and no time pressures. But all the time we’re losing money.”

The £42million Cycle Enfield programme has triggered bitter arguments between Better Streets campaigners, shop owners and the council.

Pressure group Save Our Green Lanes has fought furiously against the segregation scheme, including (unsuccessfully) through the courts.

Robert Hayward, Tory councillor for Southgate and shadow cabinet member for the environment, is pushing for compensation for affected businesses.

Mr Hayward said: “It is obvious that this Labour-led council is not going to stop Cycle Enfield and the damage it is doing to our shops and businesses. I am calling for compensation from the council for all shops that have lost income.”

An Enfield Council spokesperson said: “Cycle Enfield is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to rejuvenate the borough and dramatically improve our town centres for generations to come.

“To that end there is an inevitable degree of disruption while the works are being carried out – as there is with all major construction projects.

“Nonetheless, we are committed to completing the Cycle Enfield works as rapidly as possible – and to the highest standards – and are in regular dialogue with our contractors in this regard, and thank residents and businesses for their patience during this period. However, any business that believes it has been detrimentally impacted during the construction period should apply to the Valuation Office Agency for possible business rate relief.”

Paying the price?: John Phantis

State-of-the-art brewery invites revellers to join them for launch celebration

WHERE better to hold a launch party than at a brewery?

Revellers are being invited to celebrate the opening of a £30million riverside brewery in Enfield on Saturday, July 29.

The state-of the-art plant on the banks of the River Lea in Ponders End has been built by the Kentish Town-based Camden Town Brewery, which has outgrown its premises and has relocated production to the borough.

The all-day bash from midday to 9pm will have a host of fun-filled attractions for the all of the family, including tours of the brewery, beer tasting, pop-up restaurants, live music and DJs at a special bandstand, as well as screen printing and design workshops, a skate park, children’s activities including a bouncy castle, a soft play area, face painting, balloon animals and candy floss.

Entry to the party is free of charge via a general admission ballot.

Main attraction: The Ferris wheel was a big hit with visitors of all ages

Stars on stilts: Dawn DB and Hailey Kay get filmed as they take to the streets of Winchmore Hill for the N21 Festival Fancy Fair

By Priya Kingsley-Adam
priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

THOUSANDS flocked to a fun-filled day of entertainment in Winchmore Hill on Saturday.

Up to 10,000 visitors revelled in an afternoon of non-stop amusements at the N21 Festival Fancy Fair on Winchmore Hill Green.

A Ferris wheel was a big hit with both youngsters and adults who caught glimpses of picturesque views of London as their carriages slowly rotated.

More than 40 live music artists kept crowds entertained throughout the proceedings. They included the R Voices choir, who perform regularly at The Winchmore pub, in Winchmore Hill Road, rock band Balloon Dogs and The Blues Chapter.

Visitors also joined in a community sing-a-long to The Beatles classic Hey Jude.

Other performers on stage included youngsters from Fiction Dance group, who meet at Ordnance Unity Centre, in Hertford Road, Enfield Lock.

There were also craft stalls, artists from across the borough selling their work, face painting and other children's activities and a Punch and Judy puppet show.

Enfield Rotary Club members dressed as clowns called Coco, Silly and Billy and amused youngsters with a range of magic tricks.

A history exhibition was also set up especially

Fruit bats: Clowns Coco, Silly and Billy, from Enfield Rotary Club for the day called People and Places of Winchmore Hill.

Other attractions included food stalls serving Thai and Caribbean dishes, burgers and kebabs.

"It was lovely to have the community together, to see everyone smiling and having a good time on the green," said Ann Humphrey, who helped organise the fair."

WEARERS

If you are a denture wearer then this article may be of some interest to you!!
If you can relate to any of the following questions then it is a sign your denture needs attention:

DO YOU FIND YOUR DENTURES:

- Do not fit as well on your gums as they used to?
- Are they loose?
- Do not cut food as well as they used to?
- Do they make your face look older?
- Have discoloured despite meticulous cleaning or
- Cause discomfort/pain on chewing?

If any of the above breeds familiar territory then I may be able to alleviate some of these problems for you.

My name is Caroline Persaud I am a qualified CLINICAL DENTAL TECHNICIAN. Many of you may be aware of Dental Technicians/Mechanics who repair and produce dentures for dentists, however, due to recent changes in the Dental law, a group of Dental Care Professionals known as Clinical Dental Technicians have been approved by the General Dental Council and can now see denture wearers who have no natural teeth remaining, directly without having to visit a dentist.

The advantages to you, the patients, are numerous. You can be treated by a professional who has been clinically trained to undertake the impressions of your mouth and who also has the technical skill to manufacture your denture to meet your requirements.

A more direct, rapid and personalised service, that can be delivered to you in the comfort of your own home or at my day clinic in Edmonton.

Crash, bang, wallop

By Clare Casey

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

AMATEUR drivers tested their mettle in a Wacky Races-style competition, driving home-made creations through Alexandra Palace park on Sunday.

More than 70 teams put their gravity-powered, engine-less soapbox vehicles into the downhill time trial as part of the Red Bull Soapbox Race.

Teams put their design skills to the test as each soapbox was built from scratch and fuelled only by courage and the force of gravity.

Thousands of trackside supporters watched the madcap antics of teams riding an elephant, a rocket, a Wild West carriage and plenty of vintage-themed racers.

A spokesman for Red Bull said: "This unique, non-motorised racing event challenges both experienced racers and amateurs alike to design and build outrageous soapbox dream machines and compete against the clock in a downhill race."

"Red Bull has held more than 100 soapbox races around the world since the first one in Brussels in the year 2000 – from Australia to South Africa, Helsinki to St Louis, Jamaica to Italy."

The course was 450 metres long and featured ramps and hairpin bends.

Team Brooklands Special were the winners after blasting down the hill in 35 seconds.

Over the years, vehicles have ranged from realistic replicas to anything the imagination can conjure up.

Previous designs have included a piano, a giant baby carriage, a rodeo clown, a massive corn on the cob, a jail cell and San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge.

Oops!: Looks like this competitor's race was over after his axle snapped off

'In these shoes? I don't think so...'

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A DARING 19-year-old from Enfield has tried to scale Britain's highest mountain in five-inch stiletto heels as part of his application for a scholarship.

Ben Conway, of Churchbury Lane, battled gale-force winds and torrential rain with just walking poles to aid him as he climbed two thirds of Ben Nevis, in the Scottish Highlands.

He was just 400 metres away from the 1,345-metre summit when his stiletto strap broke, making it impossible to navigate the huge boulders to complete the climb.

The audacious expedition was the result of his application to the School of Creative Arts, in Brixton, south London, in which Ben was asked to describe his passion.

Having never climbed up a mountain before, even in walking boots, Ben chose the challenge to combine his love of heels and drag queen culture.

"It was a story about determination and the power of the human spirit," explained Ben.

He set off for the mountain with a walking guide and a friend, Callum Mackenzie Allen, who filmed a two-minute video.

"The most rewarding thing was making people smile," said Ben, who used to be a leader at the 4th Enfield Cubs, in Gordon Road.

Despite the treacherous conditions, he escaped the hike unscathed after five hours of climbing 900 metres up the mountain.

"I generally hurt myself more on nights out in London wearing heels," joked Ben.

He trained for the hike by going to Nordic walking classes at Trent Park, in Oakwood, which involved using walking poles to increase muscle strength.

The former head boy of Enfield Grammar School, in Market Place, set up a GoFundMe page with the aim of raising £400 to be split between two charities.

Half of the cash will be donated to Sal's Shoes, which donates second-hand shoes to children in developing countries.

The other half will go to Stonewall, which campaigns for equal rights among lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people.

Ben added: "This challenge was really about making people smile, making an idea come alive and showing people that if you have an idea there's nothing to lose."

High altitude enjoyment: Ben Conway climbing Ben Nevis

Pride of place: Shikh McIntosh, Besart Kaziu and Zerrin Uzzaman, from Suffolks Primary School, in Brick Lane, Enfield, with their work

Artistic young pupils unveil their creations

CREATIVE primary school pupils showcased their master pieces at an art exhibition in Enfield.

Youngsters from 13 schools presented their creations for the Art and Enterprise event at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, on Friday.

Up to 960 pupils have been taking part in workshops over the summer term for the art project which involved working with a range of materials including different textiles, felt and wire.

The youngsters, aged from five to ten, were visited by professional artists who helped them with their creations at their schools.

Guests of honour at the exhibition included mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton and Ayfer Orhan Enfield Council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection.

Youngsters sold a selection of their artwork at Enfield Town Market.

The project was run by Enfield Town Schools' Partnership and supported by the Old Enfield Charitable Trust and the Ernest Cook Trust.

Ms Orhan said: "This was a wonderful project which has produced fantastic results and demonstrates the creativity, talent and dedication of our young people and our teachers, and the artists who help put the project together."

Or maybe you'd like to unleash your wild and eccentric side with a pair of sunglasses that ensure you stand out in the crowd. The good news is: we tick all these boxes!

Readers have the chance to win a pair of sunglasses up to the value of £149.

From the frames modelled here by the glamorous Kylie Minogue, to other brands such as Boss Orange and Karl Lagerfeld, the only challenge you will have is deciding what pair to go for!

As expected from your professional opticians, all sunglasses guarantee superior protection from harmful UV rays. The pair will come fitted with tinted prescription lenses and a UV filter.

For more information on caring for eyes in the summer and to check out the extensive range, visit www.specsavers.co.uk/stores/palmersgreen. Send answers, with your name, address and a daytime phone number, to: Specsavers Competition, North London & Essex News Ltd, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT, or send your answer, with contact details, to competitions@nlhnews.co.uk, with "Specsavers" in the subject line, by noon on July 20.

Terms and conditions:

- One winner to receive one pair of sunglasses to the value of £149.
- This prize is non-transferable, cannot be exchanged or used in conjunction with other offers and no cash alternative will be offered. Lenses come as single vision as standard. Other lenses can be added at additional cost.

- The winner's current prescriptions are required, or a free eye test will be conducted.
- The free eye test cannot be exchanged for cash or used with other vouchers, or redeemed by customers already entitled to a free NHS-funded eye test. Prizes to be redeemed at Specsavers Palmers Green only.

Shop's official opening's a right Royal occasion

Ready for business: Laura Muir, Sarah Sheridan, Barbara Toquie and David McMahon-Cagney outside the new shop; below, customer Alan Waters has a browse through items

SHOPPERS flocked to the opening of a new charity shop – the first of many in aid of the Royal Free Charity.

The store, in Church Street, Enfield Town, opened to the public on Saturday, selling everything from clothes and shoes, to sugar bowls and bric-a-brac.

It will be open seven days a week and other than a paid shop manager and paid assistant manager – to cover the days the manager does not work – the team is made up of volunteers, all keen to support the Chase Farm Charity and Barnet Hospital Charity.

Chris Burghes, Royal Free Charity's chief executive, said: "We are very excited about this new venture for the charity which will provide a source of unrestricted income and enable us to deliver the services we provide to patients like massage therapy, as well as enabling us to establish new services."

The shop, situated next to Starbucks coffee shop, is the first of a string of dedicated shops that will be rolled out this year.

In common with other retail shops, the business will pay market value rent to the landlord – but because it's a charity it will receive 80 per cent business rates relief on the premises.

For information on donating or volunteering, contact Laura.Muir@royalfreecharity.org

Jail sentence for car parts conman

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A FRAUDSTER from Palmers Green has been jailed after selling fake car parts and vehicles with fake service histories for thousands of pounds on online auction sites.

Antonis Antzouli, of Farndale Avenue, admitted fraud and counterfeit charges at Wood Green Crown Court.

The 34-year-old was sent to prison for six months for the counterfeit goods charges and 12 months for the fraud charges, the sentences to run consecutively.

The court heard that Antzouli started trading in counterfeit goods in 2008.

Seven years later, in June 2015, he was caught in possession of unauthorised trademarked goods which he sold on online auction sites under vehicle manufacturers including Peugeot, BMW, Renault and Volvo.

He was found to have forged the service histories of at least 18 vehicles, making about £79,500 from his illegal activities.

The court also ordered the destruction of the counterfeit items and those Antzouli used to create false service histories.

Antzouli is now subject to confiscation proceedings under the Proceeds of Crime Act to recover money made from his illegal activities.

"Customers have the right to expect to receive the goods they have paid for and not receive a poor quality counterfeit knock-off instead," said Daniel Anderson, Enfield Council's cabinet member for environment.

"We will not tolerate illegal activity in Enfield and we will take effective action to deal with traders who flout the law.

"Deceit as not an acceptable basis for a business model and I am pleased that the court has reinforced that message by jailing Antzouli for his misdemeanours.

"Building strong communities relies on us properly regulating businesses so they stick to the rules for the benefit of both consumers and other law-abiding companies who are otherwise disadvantaged when others behave in a criminal manner."

Life president – Enfield Over-50s Forum

CONTRARY to Theresa May's election campaign claim, we now know there is a "magic money tree" growing in the Downing Street rose garden.

The first £1billion crop has gone to ten Northern Ireland MPs as a downpayment for future services.

So how much will the Prime Minister pay for our record 10,000-plus signatures from Enfield residents supporting an Over-50s Forum petition?

We are requesting that a fairer funding formula be applied in determining future government grants to our council. We expect ministers to shake that elusive "magic money tree", so it delivers here in Enfield.

The June meeting of the full council agreed unanimously to support Conservative councillor Edward Smith's resolution calling for bi-partisan, cross-borough working "to address the unfair nature of the government's funding formula as it affects local government in outer London".

The election result has, however, meant that ministerial intentions have been abandoned, or, in Whitehall speak, reprioritised.

Among them was the idea that rates collected from businesses might be retained by a council to replace reduced government funding. Ministers appear to accept the need for a national debate about the unfairness of council funding.

So we'll have to make our voices heard alongside the call for fair funding for schools and the NHS and ending the one per cent pay cap for nurses and firefighters and the cut in police budgets.

I hear now that our local mental health trust is under-funded by about £5million a year. The "magic money tree" will need to produce a bumper crop – or else people will draw their own conclusions.

Slower broadband means a slower economy

AS an MEP for London, I was disappointed by the results of the survey on broadband speeds by consumers' association Which?

It reveals that speeds in many parts of central London are nothing like those further out.

The measure is megabits per second (mbps) and Southwark and Westminster have an average 10.4 and 12.9

respectively while Kingston gets 25 and Enfield has the luxury of 29.1.

A city of our prominence and standing deserves broadband that is excellent, consistent and universal.

Bad broadband speed hits families who may want to have several different streams of internet use operating simultaneously.

Worse than that, it holds back the businesses that could be creating jobs and contributing to our prosperity.

Slow broadband speeds mean a slower economy.

We need to see our mayor working with London boroughs to do everything possible to speed up the internet across London. Our people and our businesses deserve better.

It is vital to stand against knife crime

HUNDREDS of people from our local communities turned out for the Schools Against Violence in England march on Saturday, July 1, showing their determination to stand up against knife crime and not accept that crime and violence are an inevitable part of life.

Enfield Council, the police and partners continue to work closely together to support local communities and combat knife crime – pooling resources and expertise to deliver crime-tackling measures such as the increased use of CCTV and increased patrols.

We are also working closely with the mayor of London, who has just announced a range of initiatives to help tackle knife crime.

These include providing metal-detecting wands for schools, introducing new community sentences for knife possession, delivering specialist police work in knife-crime hotspots, targeting shops which sell illegal knives to young people and offering increased support for young victims of knife crime and their families.

While it is great that so many organisations, groups, communities and individuals are united by a passionate commitment to keeping our young people safe, it is time the government did its bit.

The police service in London needs to be properly funded and we will continue to make this case to government.

Congratulations on a great show

I WOULD like to congratulate Ann and Hugh Humphrey and their team for the brilliantly organised Fancy Fair held on Winchmore Hill Green.

It seems that no effort had been spared to make it a big success, which it certainly was.

And I'm sure it must have been great for the local shops, restaurants and cafes, who were all doing a roaring trade.

There were fascinating stalls, live entertainment and, above all, the Ferris wheel, which had a queue of eager people wanting to ride on it all day long.

I don't really wish to pick out anyone special because all the stallholders clearly worked so hard – but I was very impressed to realise how many wonderful artists we have living in and around Winchmore Hill.

And I was also delighted that our Green Party stall attracted many people who were keen to buy our raffle tickets, as much to support the Green Party as to win a prize.

So, thank you to everyone who supported the fair and thank you again to the organisers.

After so much bad news, this was the boost we all needed, and the weather did help, of course.

Air pollution's not something we can ignore

WITH air pollution in the news so much it can be easy to lose sight of what is really at risk if the dirty air many of us breathe, particularly on our daily commutes, isn't tackled.

It isn't an issue any of us can afford to ignore. Air pollution is an invisible but deadly problem which contributes to an estimated 40,000 premature deaths in the UK per year. Behind that large number is an even more worrying truth.

Pioneering research funded by the British Heart Foundation has shown that even short-term inhalation of high concentrations of air pollution – particularly dangerous ultrafine particles found in diesel vehicle emissions – increases the risk of a potentially life-threatening heart attack within just 24 hours of exposure. For the 700,000 people in London with heart and circulatory disease, we must take action now.

Since 2010, the BHF has invested £3.2million in medical research into the link between air pollution and heart and circulatory disease. We're committed to working with political leaders at all levels to clean up the capital's dirty air. All Londoners deserve that.

We should make space for nature

LAST week I handed in a petition to the mayor from Highgate resident Maurice Melzak aimed at supporting nature in London by giving everyone who moves home a token to help them buy a bird box or bat box, "swift brick" or other space for animals to nest and live.

The funds would come from estate agent commissions and wouldn't be charged to tenants, and so we're also looking for backing from the property industry. It's a simple idea for giving nature a space to live in our city and fits well with the excellent campaign to make London a national park city.

Ideas like these also help put pressure on the mayor to ensure his new planning policies do the most they can to make sure London provides homes for nature alongside homes for people.

THE area outside Bush Hill Park station has been repaved. Two planting beds have been laid and eventually two trees have been planted in one of the beds, which look very nice.

That was many weeks ago now. The other bed remains empty, except for the weeds and cigarette butts which are rapidly filling both beds. No bark has been laid to deter this.

The result is that already the area is looking sad and neglected. Come on Enfield Council – surely you can do better than this.

Learn to spot the signs of counterfeit tobacco

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

THE dangers cheap, illegal cigarettes and tobacco pose in supporting international criminal gangs and damaging people's health will be highlighted at a roadshow coming to Enfield next week. Doggy cigarettes sold under the counter and on the black market might be cheaper, but they contain all kinds of harmful substances.

And buyers are lining the pockets of criminals with links to drug dealing, people smuggling and money laundering.

Visitors to the information roadshow at Enfield Civic Centre, in Silver Street, starting at 10am on Monday, can learn to spot and identify counterfeit tobacco and where to report their concerns if they suspect and witness it being sold.

It is part of a London-wide campaign involving the capital's local authorities and trading standards and health professionals aimed at stamping out the illegal trade.

Visitors will also have the chance to meet the sniffer dogs who play a vital role in enforcement operations, helping find concealed or smuggled hauls of illegal tobacco.

"Illegal tobacco has strong links with organised crime and criminal gangs who are involved in people smuggling, drug dealing and money laundering," said the council's cabinet member for environment Daniel Anderson.

Stub them out: The roadshow will highlight dangers of illegal cigarettes

"In addition, those selling illegal tobacco often target children and young smokers. We are therefore happy to support this campaign to weed out anyone involved in buying or selling these products.

"As part of our drive to build strong communities and to foster safe, well-regulated neighbourhoods, we are cracking down on this issue," he added.

Residents who have information relating to illegal tobacco can email trading_standards@enfield.gov.uk or call the Citizens Advice consumer helpline on 03454 04 05 06.

They can report any concerns online at www.londontradingstandards.org.uk/report-consumer-crime

Walker trio top of the class at school awards

By Priya Kingsley-Adam

priya.kingsley-adam@nlhnews.co.uk

A VALUED primary school governor has scooped a prestigious award. Phillip Dawson received the outstanding contribution to governance award for his exceptional dedication to raising education standards.

Mr Dawson has been a governor for nine years at Walker Primary School, in Waterfall Road, Southgate, and was made chairman of the governing body in 2013.

The 38-year-old is a director at Fraser Brown MacKenna Architects, in central London, and churchwarden at Christ Church Southgate, in The Green.

He was a governor for three years at Carterhatch Junior School, in Carterhatch Lane, Enfield.

Governing bodies set the aims and objectives for their schools and work closely with headteachers.

"It was very embarrassing to receive an award when so much hard work goes on every day by so many governors in Enfield," said Mr Dawson, of Selborne Road, Southgate.

"I have always tried to make sure we spend our time as governors effectively and I wrote a governors' finance handbook to help demystify the time scales and jargon which is now used at other schools."

The annual awards ceremony, which is hosted by Enfield Council, was held at the Dugdale Centre, in London Road, Enfield Town.

The awards celebrate the work of 1,200 governors across the borough for the hours of voluntary work they offer to help support more than 90 schools.

Nine governors were awarded commendations and five pupils received a Governors Award 4 Young People for their contribution to promoting community cohesion.

"It was wonderful to share the stage with Scott Stockham, from year 4, who picked up a young people's award," said Mr Dawson.

"Scott helped to co-ordinate our UNICEF blankets appeal for Syrian refugees and helped make the beds at Christ Church Southgate winter night shelter.

"His efforts sum up the outward looking ethos of Walker Primary School," added Mr Dawson.

Paula Christodoulou, Friends of Walker chairwoman, was also recognised for her voluntary work at the school.

Certificates were also awarded for completing the governor accreditation programme.

"I am immensely proud of all of our governors who make a huge contribution to the success of the schools in Enfield," said Ayfer Orhan, the council's cabinet member for education, children's services and protection.

"I am also delighted that Phillip Dawson has been rightly recognised for the colossal contribution he has made to Walker Primary School this year."

Mayor's charity will take care of carers

ENFIELD'S mayor wore her heart on her sleeve as she launched Enfield Cares, her chosen charity for her year in office.

Supporters packed into the mayor's parlour at Enfield Civic Centre as Christine Hamilton declared that she was aiming to "raise the profile" and "celebrate" carers in the borough through her charity.

"Every single day, around the clock, thousands of people in Enfield are quietly fulfilling caring roles for a family member or a friend," said the mayor. "They can be called on 24 hours a day and many of them are unpaid, or have given up paid employment to care."

"My charity this year is dedicated to reaching out to all our carers and the communities and organisations which support them. As well as raising money for carers' support groups, I want to raise awareness of the invaluable role they play in supporting many of the most vulnerable in our communities."

caring@ Mayor of Enfield Christine Hamilton launches her charity

"Carers contribute so much to people's quality of life. It is right and proper that this mayoral year is spent giving them the appreciation they so richly deserve and to showing that Enfield cares about carers."

Mrs Hamilton is aiming to make her charity inclusive through fundraising and will work with a range of groups, including MIND in Enfield, Tender Care and the sickle cell and thalassaemia charity at North Middlesex University Hospital, in Edmonton.

She wants her charity to highlight the help available for mental health patients and victims of bullying and is also aiming to boost awareness to the outreach and support network for victims of domestic violence or hate crime.

Residents rewarded for fundraising

THE fundraising achievements of a group of housing association residents were recognised at a celebration thrown by their landlord.

People living on their own in homes in Enfield provided by Origin Housing set up a crowdfunding page to start a community group to benefit residents and promote health and well-being.

The housing association's development team organised a sponsored walk and the proceeds from that, combined with the crowdfunding, helped raise £1,248.50

Match funding of £1,000 from Origin Housing meant that a total of £2,248.50 was raised and a giant mock cheque for that amount was handed over at a presentation celebration at The Qube at the Ponders End Community Development Trust, in Nags Head Road. Residents also received certificates.

"They are forming a residents' group to bring people together and promote community cohesion and have already arranged a summer coach trip," said Origin spokeswoman Kelsey Buckew.

What's on and what's coming

Sean has lots of laughter in store

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

STAR of TV's Storage Hunters Sean Kelly is bringing a locker full of laughs to Millfield Theatre on Friday.

Fans of the hit show might be surprised to learn that the genial American is not a professional auctioneer, but is in fact a stand-up comedian and has been for the past 19 years.

His hilarious act at the theatre, in Silver Street, Edmonton, is part of his Sold Your Way! UK tour.

He devised the popular TV reality show, in which the contents of storage units on which rent is owed are auctioned off.

More than 80 episodes were recorded in the States before it was brought over to the UK, where UK Living commissioned 56 more for its Dave channel, but despite the show's popularity it's hardly mentioned in his act.

That's because the 47-year-old admits he has more than enough material from the crazy life he has led.

When he was 10, his father, a life insurance salesman, moved to Germany to sell policies to US troops stationed in military camps there. "I couldn't speak a word of German and was enrolled in a German-speaking school," recalls Sean.

"Neither of my parents learned the language, so whenever there was a parents' meeting with teachers at the school to discuss my progress, I'd interpret for the teachers, leaving out or glossing over the negative bits."

His parents divorced when he was 13 and three years later he had moved into his own flat, working at night driving a forklift truck to pay the rent and continuing his studies in the daytime.

At 18, he and a girlfriend moved to Italy, where they both got jobs in a US army base – she as a bartender and he as an undercover store detective at a Walmart.

"They sent me to a school for a month to learn how to shoplift, so you knew all the tricks shoplifters use," he explained.

It was at the army base he was recruited into the US military and served a tour as a soldier in Iraq during Desert Storm.

Audiences are invited to bring along cheeky items to his comedy show for Sean to auction off, with all the proceeds going to Help for Heroes, the armed forces charity.

After leaving the army, he worked with his father in the States – selling life insurance before becoming sales manager of the San Diego Reader newspaper, the third largest circulation paper in the States.

He always wanted to perform stand-up and during that time had opened his own comedy club where he headlined, performing three nights a week.

He has gone on to perform at the MGM Hotel in Las Vegas.

Sean's clever patter was spotted at a charity auction and he was offered some work professionally as an auctioneer. It's where he came up with the idea for Storage Hunters.

"Many of those who make a living from bidding on storage units and the like can't get a job because they have a prison record, or can't fit in with their nine-to-five office job and are on the fringe of society," he explained.

"One day I was conducting an auction when a fight broke out. I realised then that the high pressure environment and the ramped-up emotions would make really watchable TV and after pitching it to TV execs, Storage Hunters was born," he added.

Serkis act

WAR FOR THE PLANET OF THE APES (12A, 140 mins)

MONKEY business becomes deadly serious in the third chapter of the rebooted sci-fi franchise.

Matt Reeves, who directed the thrilling 2014 instalment Dawn Of The Planet Of The Apes, retains his position at the helm of this cataclysmic showdown between the last remnants of mankind and genetically enhanced primates, who have collectively weathered the storm of Simian Flu.

So much of the picture relies on the latest motion-capture visual effects to translate performances of a gifted human cast into richly textured animal protectors and warriors.

The results are jaw-dropping.

Time and again, Reeves shoots pivotal scenes in close-up so we can see tears well in the creatures' eyes, or anguish ripple across their brows, as they face the stark possibility of extermination.

It's a glittering showcase for Andy Serkis' tour de force portrayal of the leader of the ape uprising, begging tantalising questions about where performance ends and state-of-the-art trickery begins.

Everyone has blood on their hands and Reeves' contemplative script, co-written by Mark Bomback, corrupts characters on both sides of the conflict in the name of survival.

The only winners, when the computer-enhanced dust settles after almost two-and-a-half hours, are audiences who have been on this roller-coaster since 2011 when the ALZ-113 virus ravaged the globe.

Twelve years have passed since that outbreak and Caesar (Serkis), his wife Cornelia (Judy Greer) and their two sons Blue Eyes (Max Lloyd-Jones) and Cornelius (Devyn Dalton) are living in exile in the woods with the rest of the apes.

The outcasts include wise Bornean orangutan Maurice (Karin Konoval), chimpanzee Rocket (Terry Notary) and brave Western lowland gorilla Luca (Michael Adamthwaite).

Under the cover of darkness, Colonel McCullough (Woody Harrelson) and his sharp-shooting soldiers stage an assault on the ape stronghold and kill most of Caesar's orders and join him on the long and arduous trek to locate the military in their

by the virus. Maurice becomes a surrogate parent to the child as Caesar continues his quest for retribution.

"They must pay," he growls.

War For The Planet Of The Apes is a fitting conclusion to several key storylines, which are underscored by composer Michael Giacchino's magnificent orchestral score.

Serkis and Harrelson face off in a series of increasingly brutal set pieces that hammer home the senseless loss of life on both sides of the ideological divide.

Summer selling tips

Bright rooms and flourishing gardens; there are plenty of benefits to selling your property in the summer months. Richard Oughton from Ellis & Co Enfield offers some tips for making your home stand out in the busy summer property market.

We love to go away in the summer and it's inevitable that a large number of your buyers will be planning a trip while your property is on the market. Make sure they can visit your house when they are free by handing the responsibility over to an estate agent. Having the ability to view your house at convenient times will give your buyers a positive first impression. This is particularly important if you are planning a getaway to ensure that you avoid disappointing your buyers. Plus, it will help you to maintain a steady stream of viewings and interest in your home.

Gardens flourish during the summertime, which can be a great asset when it comes to selling your home. Make the most out of the greenery by keeping it neat and tidy. Mow the lawn twice a week to keep it in order and water your plants every night to keep them looking vibrant. It's also a good idea to leave your garden furniture outside during viewings to make your outdoor space appear as inviting and valuable as possible.

Controlling the temperature of your home is one of the most important factors when it comes to selling during the summer months. Properties that are airy and cool are most appealing to buyers at this time of year. Keeping your curtains and blinds drawn before your buyers arrive will help to prevent your house from getting too hot, while opening the windows will bring in the fresh air. However, make sure you reopen the curtains just before the viewing and remember to close the windows during evening viewings to prevent bugs from filling your rooms.

With bright daytime light and long evenings, now is the time to draw attention the brightness of your home. Taking down heavy curtains will help the light to flood your rooms, while removing clutter from the windowsill will encourage people to take in the views. You could also place a few mirrors near your windows to reflect the light around the room.

Creating an appealing scent in your home is another effective trick for pleasing your potential buyers. It's all about freshness during the summertime, so avoid the popular coffee and baked bread and instead opt for fresh flowers. Lilies have a lovely sweet scent, as do sweet williams and peonies. A bowl of fresh fruit, especially tropical varieties, also brings that welcoming summer fragrance into your home.

Properties typically look their finest during the summer months and paying attention to these final pointers will help you to achieve what you want out of your sale.

SAVE IN LEAPS AND BOUNDS IN N13 WITH NOTTING HILL SALES

With research by online agent findproperly.com highlighting affordability gap between London's travelcard zones, it's easy to see why more first time buyers are leaving central London in search of better value. The findings show that the average price for a one bedroom home along the Piccadilly Line in Zone One is £872,5801, however, travelling just seven stops north to Bounds Green, and the average value drops by a staggering 62%.

Offering a brand new collection of homes in this more affordable North London suburb, Notting Hill Sales has recently launched Broomfield, the final phase at its ASPIRE development in Enfield, N13. As well as enjoying a great location, the homes are available from as little as £335,000, a marked difference to those just 15 minutes further down the line.

Jenny Murphy, Head of Sales and Marketing at Notting Hill Sales, comments: "Buying a property in London can be tricky, especially with prices in central London so high. Not only does Bounds Green offer a much more affordable alternative to property in Zone One, but our new development, Broomfield, is great value for how close they are to central London. Previous phases at ASPIRE have sold extremely well, and we anticipate that Broomfield will be no different, so we would encourage any potential purchasers to register their interest sooner rather than later."

Combining cool urban style with unrivalled value for money, Broomfield comprises a collection of one, two and three bedroom homes to suit professional singles, couples and families alike.

Each home has been thoughtfully designed to include outside space; one and two bedroom apartments enjoy balconies, while three-bed homes each have a patio or terrace. Most homes come with parking spaces and cycle storage; hard and soft landscaping ramps up the feel-good factor and adds to the community feel.

Buyers will appreciate the interior attention to detail; kitchen appliances are by Zanussi and feature integrated recycling bins, Quartzstone laminate worktops, timber effect Barn Oak flooring and LED lighting. Luxury contemporary bathrooms comprise Hans Grohe bath, shower and basin taps, ladder towel rails, Porcelanosa wall and floor tiling, and Maia Greystone variety worktops. Open plan living further increases the feeling of space and flow.

Earlier phases at ASPIRE have sold quickly to buyers attracted by fast and frequent underground services at Bounds Green station, which is only half a mile away. Bowes Park station is also close by, with direct national rail links to Kings Cross and Moorgate, and a number of local bus routes operate from outside the development.

Easy access to green spaces in the area - including the Walker Ground cricket fields and the nearby Arnos Park - have kept the area high in the popularity stakes for buyers prioritising space and community feel for their money. There are also a number of Ofsted-rated 'outstanding' schools in the area, including Bowes Primary School and Aylands.

Prices start at £335,000 for a one-bedroom apartment. For more information, contact Notting Hill Sales on 020 8357 4579, or visit the website: www.nhillsales.com

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1989.
2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'VT' etc. in the advertisement.
4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
5. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
6. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full card/metre. This will NOT apply to full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
7. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.
8. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.
9. All gross advertising rates (except classified insertions and semidisplay) are subject to and include a 0.15% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.
10. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
11. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
12. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.
(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.
(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 6% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should Legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.
17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.
18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers
Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. Box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., cannot be added. There is no charge for forwarding replies. Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category
All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection
The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search at a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies.
However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.
Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Trade Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. Vis, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.
Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Something to suit all tastes

By Jon Reay

Is this the most important new car of 2017? If you've been paying attention to just how many Fiestas Ford manages to shift per year, it's hard to argue otherwise.

The Blue Oval's second smallest model has been the best-selling car in Britain since 2009 and has consistently appeared in the top 10 since it was launched in 1976.

The Fiesta's position is under threat, however, with the market for more premium-badged competitors such as the Audi A1 and DS 3 growing ever stronger.

Ford's answer is to fight back with arguably the plushest Fiesta yet, complete with oodles of new technology and a top-spec Vignale model that tips the scales at an eye-watering £19,345 in its cheapest guise.

The Fiesta's party piece has traditionally been the way it handles, with a playful character and the kind of poise and precision you wouldn't expect in a supermini.

Go for the ST-Line trim – with its lowered suspension and specially tuned power steering – and you'll find the Fiesta's character remains very much intact, with a set-up that generally favours fun over outright comfort.

Other trims – from Style to Vignale – get considerably softer settings, gliding over potholes and imperfections without fuss.

Interior quality, too, has taken a drastic step up. There are soft-touch plastics aplenty and switches have a reassuring feel to them, while Vignale-spec cars get plush seats and a leather-trimmed dashboard.

Unsurprisingly for a Ford, the driving position is pretty much spot-on and – in most trims at least – there's plenty of seat adjustability to help you get comfortable.

Parking is even easier thanks to an optional assist system, which can handle negotiating the car in and out of parallel spaces and typical super-market perpendicular bays. The driver is still required to work the gearbox, accelerator and brake, but the new system does at least emergency-brake if it senses a potential impact.

There's no hiding that Ford is pushing the Fiesta into more premium realms – particularly in top-of-the-range Vignale spec – but, thankfully, most trim levels don't see much of a price jump over the previous model.

A three-door Zetec with the 98bhp 1.0-litre EcoBoost, for example, costs £120 less than the equivalent old Fiesta despite a few bits of extra kit.

Ford has added more tempting options than ever before, though, and many are limited to higher trim levels than you might like. Keyless entry, for example, is only available on Titanium trim or above and standard only on Titanium X and Vignale.

Ford's SYNC 3 infotainment system is – thankfully – standard on all but the entry-level Style trim, but you'll need to pay extra for the larger eight-inch touchscreen rather than the standard 6.5-inch set-up. DAB is standard on all but the Style model, too, while navigation is standard on Titanium trim and above, or a £300 option on Zetec and ST-Line.

The Fiesta is probably one of the broadest-appealing cars on sale today. Anyone from new drivers to grandmothers is likely to be interested in the diddy Ford, while ever-increasing interior space means that even young families could be considered as Fiesta customers.

To an extent, the Fiesta's customer base is pretty well defined as it stands today.

Ford is hoping that the extra premium touches of the new car will steal some buyers back from the likes of the Audi A1, DS 3 and Mini and although it's lacking a premium badge the Fiesta can give them a run for their money in terms of refinement, handling and technology.

BRIGHT SPARKS

Whether you're looking to save money on your lighting by switching to LED, searching for that perfect lamp - or are a tradesman working on a complete house makeover, family-run independent electrical wholesaler AW Electrical Supplies has it all.

With shopping locally and supporting local businesses more important than ever, we popped into their shop, conveniently situated just off the A10, to find out more and meet the bright sparks behind the company...

Anthony and Bill Oliveri

The moment you step into AW Electrical Supplies you can tell that brothers Anthony and William Oliveri (no prizes for how they came up with the name) have been in the electrical industry for a while.

Packed full of all that's new and cutting edge in the electrical industry and with that welcoming feeling so often missing within this trade, if you've got time for a coffee, definitely grab one (although I would personally recommend the hot chocolate).

Set up 9 years ago against the tide of a rise in the national wholesaler providing a faceless, unfriendly policy of only being able to provide those items already in their catalogue, AW, as well as stocking over £400k of products on site doesn't believe in saying no - if you want it and it's available somewhere...they'll find it.

With both brothers born and bred in Enfield (and William living just 10 minutes from the shop) it's clear that there was only going to be one place they'd choose to showcase what their 40 years of experience in the industry has shown them. "From lighting and heating through to electrical tools, we want every customer to walk away from our counter happy that they have everything they need. Whether it's the information they need to make informed judgements about the best materials for their projects, or a boot full of stock so that they can get on with the job that day" explains Anthony.

"So many companies will tell you they can get it for you in a couple of days - we want you to walk away with it that day, that's why we invest so much in stock, as well as our fleet of delivery vans," chipped in William. "That's not to say if we don't stock it here, we can't get it. We don't believe in anything being 'special', so if we haven't got it we'll source it for the customer, however big or small the order."

On hand from 7am each day, it's clear that the Oliveri brothers are passionate about customer service and with such a convenient location for us locals, it's literally a case of popping round the corner to see the extensive range of products in person. And for those who don't have the time to visit? Their new and improved website and speedy delivery service makes ordering online easier than ever.

"Being a small, independent business we're able to offer unrivalled knowledge and top quality electrical products - while keeping our prices as low as possible," says William. That's the AW promise in a nutshell, and there's no doubt that this local light is definitely the one-stop-shop for all our electrical needs.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. 'Classified' Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', 'IT' etc. in the advertisement.

3. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;

(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or

(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

4. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

5. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

6. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

7. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

8. All gross advertising rates (except classified listings and semi-displays) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

9. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

10. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

11. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

12. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

13. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

(2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 4% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.

14. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect of an advertisement(s) should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.

15. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.

16. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

17. The Publisher may provide voucher copies for published advertisements in electronic form only subject to certain criteria. Further information is available on request.

18. The copyright of advertisements produced wholly or partially by the Publishers belong to the Publishers. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the Publishers' consent.

Box Numbers

Boxes are open for the receipt of bona fide answers and are not available for distribution of trade canvassing matter. Original testimonials, goods, cash, cash stamps or payments of any kind must not be enclosed. A box Number and postal address are charged as part of the advertisement, i.e. Box No., centre address. There is no charge for forwarding replies.

Box numbers alone are not available for use in 'Trade' advertisements, other than Employment and Business Opportunities.

Holiday & Travel Category

All advertising must contain the name of the advertiser, phone number alone are not permitted.

Data Protection

The service you have requested may require us to carry out a credit search of a credit-referencing agency, which will record the fact that a search has been made. We may need to share your information with other lenders and credit reference agencies. However, we will only use the information from these searches to make credit-granting decisions and, if necessary, for fraud prevention or tracing debtors.

Data controller will use your information for administration and analysis. We may share your information with other Tindle Group Newspaper companies or carefully selected third parties. We, or they, may send you details of other goods and services, which may be of interest to you. The information may be provided by letter, telephone or other reasonable means of communication. Calls may be recorded or monitored for training purposes.

Special conditions apply with regard to the advertising of adult services, which are outlined to all persons submitting such advertisements.

Last-wicket pair clinch it for North Middlesex

A CENTURY by James Parslow steered North Middlesex towards a thrilling victory at Finchley in the Kingspan Middlesex County Cricket League Premier Division on Saturday.

Set to score 235 in 56 overs, the visitors slipped to 68-4 before Parslow was joined by Charlie MacLeod and the fifth-wicket pair put on 155 before the latter was out for 54.

Parslow departed on the same total for exactly 100, made off 115 balls and including one six and 11 fours, to make it 223-6 and three more wickets fell for the addition of nine runs, leaving North Middlesex on 232-9.

But Middlesex man Ravi Patel, accompanied by last man Ed Bird, hit the winning runs with four balls to spare.

Javon Abraham (3-39) and Dean Gahagan (2-18) were Finchley's most successful bowlers.

Earlier, slow left-arm Patel (4-44) and skipper Tom Nicoll (3-102) had helped dismiss the home side for 234 in 64 overs.

After opener Phil Hughes had made 41, they reduced Finchley to 132-7 – but number four Sumeet Sharma stood firm, finishing unbeaten on 96 and adding 102 for the last three wickets, supported by Jamie Powe (24) and Abraham (23).

Meanwhile, Highgate romped to a comprehensive 209-run win in their top-of-the-table clash at home to Enfield and now lead Division Two by 18 points.

The home side piled up 354-8 in 50 overs and bowled Enfield out for 145 with the best part of 11 overs to spare.

Shane McNamara hammered a run-a-ball 145, including a six and 24 fours, sharing an opening partnership of 90 with Chris Arul (52) and adding 122 for the third wicket with Scott Elstone (52 off 42 balls) as Enfield's bowlers were put to the sword.

Dan Amedee took 5-74 in eight overs. Elstone then ripped through the Enfield batting, taking 6-30 in 14.1 overs, and David Monk chipped in with 2-39.

Jack Plumb (49) was Enfield's top scorer and Arthur George was 23 not out when their innings folded.

Elsewhere in Division Two, Hornsey had the better of a draw at home to Indian Gymkhana while North London lost a low-scoring home game against Twickenham.

Tahmid Islam shone with bat and ball as Hornsey finished agonisingly short of victory.

He took 3-69 as Gymkhana chose to bat first after winning the toss at Hornsey and reached 276-8 before their innings closed after 55 overs, with Rakesh Khade making 69 and Salman Mohammed 53.

He then hit 116 off 115 balls, including one six and 15 fours, but the home side had to settle for four points as they replied with 272-8 in 45 overs.

North London remain in one of the relegation places after being bowled out for 110 – Parminder Singh taking 4-15, Thomas Grundy 3-27 and Clint McCabe 3-30. Dave Schout (23 not out) was top scorer.

The visitors lost their first two wickets without a run on the board, but their innings was revived by Carlos Nunes (44) and McCabe (21) before Tom Field (23 not out) and Gurjit Sandhu (12 not out) clinched victory with three wickets to spare.

Jordan Gregory (3-27) was North London's most successful bowler and Freddie Issitt claimed 2-15.

Howzat: Ravi Patel appeals for an lbw for North Middlesex at Finchley on Saturday

This Saturday, North Middlesex are at home Southgate while Highgate travel to Twickenham, Hornsey visit Enfield and North London are away to Osterley.

SKOLARS IN GOOD FORM

RESULTS elsewhere mean that Skolars' chances of making the top eight when rugby league's Kingstone Press League One splits into two after next weekend are purely mathematical.

But they did ensure they will start the second stage in good form by closing the gap on Hunslet with a 30-16 victory at New River on Saturday in a game which the home side controlled for large parts.

The first half saw defences dominating, with David Williams in particular putting in a tremendous stint as Skolars kept Hunslet scoreless.

However, they went in only six points ahead, scoring a try in the early stages after Lameck Juma made a good break before Mike Bishay came into the attacking line as the ball was moved to the right and created an overlap for Sam Nash to touch down in the corner.

With two minutes of the first half remaining, Lamont Bryan and Hunslet's George Flanagan were sin-binned, leaving both sides a man short at the restart. Hunslet took advantage of a stretched defence early in the second half as Jack Coventry forced his way over the line.

Skolars regained the lead soon afterwards. Another break by Juma saw him kick past the defence and force a goal-line drop-out. He then delivered the final pass for James Hill to score in the left corner. The kick-off went out on the full, giving Skolars another chance to attack. Nash went over on the right and was able to ground the ball under the posts, giving Jy-Mel Coleman an easy conversion.

Former Skolar Mufaro Mvududu scored to give Hunslet renewed hope, but they kicked a drop-out straight into touch and Coleman landed an easy penalty.

Skolars stretched their lead when Bishay took a pass from a scrum on the right 30 metres out and shot past the defence with an angled run that saw him score in the left corner.

Tempers flared again towards the end with two more sin-binnings and Juma receiving a red card. Jimmy Morgan scored for the visitors, but a rushed conversion was missed and there was not time for Hunslet to score twice.

In fact, the Yorkshiresmen lost the ball and Bryan scored under the posts as the hooter sounded, with Coleman kicking his fifth goal of the afternoon.

Skolars are at home to South Wales Ironmen this Sunday (3pm).

Borough's cup draws

HARINGEY Borough have been drawn away to Bostik League North Division rivals Bowers & Pitsea in the FA Cup preliminary round on August 19 and at home to Whyteleafe, of the Bostik League Division South, in the Buildbase FA Trophy preliminary round on October 7.

New this September

Access to University Diploma in Social Work

Come to Open Day, Monday 17 July 4 - 6pm to find out more and apply

- Are you somebody who cares for others?
- Do you want to help improve people's lives?
- Would you like a challenging and rewarding career?

If the answer is 'yes', working in social care could be the perfect job for you.

With the UK facing a national shortage in the number of social workers, there has never been a better time to start in the profession.

That's why we're starting a new Access to University Diploma in Social Work from this September, to enable you to take the first steps towards your future career.

The course provides Level 3 training, the equivalent of up to three A-levels, and is a great way to get into university.

“Social work for me is about changing people's lives.

“Every day is different. You never know what you are going to be doing - one day it may relate to a domestic incident and the next providing a testimony at court.

“This course is a great way to enable you to get a place on a social work degree and a professional qualification.”

Leon Martin, Health and Social Care lecturer at CONEL
